In Call of the Wild, Jack London shows us the world through the perspective of a dog. While Theatre Heroes uses multimedia and one-person storytelling to bring this to life, there are many ways you could dramatize the life of an animal!

If you could make an entire play about a wild animal, what animal would it be?

In the space below, do one of the following:

- Write a monologue (a one-character speech) your animal main character might say in that play.
- Design a creative costume for your animal main character. If the actor is human, what could they wear that would give them animal-like qualities? (No full-body animal suits, those are hard to move and act in!)
- Draw the set for your play. How would you decorate an indoor stage to make it look like the outdoors, seen through an animal's eyes?
